Similar to many business processes, the secret to success in DevOps is all about applying resources effectively. Do it correctly, and you'll not only increase efficiencies across your organization, but you'll also be better positioned to handle mergers and acquisitions (M&A), system service levels, and industry regulatory changes.

Patrick Funck, CIO at naviHealth, discusses three common business challenges a right DevOps structure can help solve. Read the full article here.