

As testing ramps up and the number of COVID-19 cases climb, senior living providers are considering how to best care for those stricken with the virus. One solution that's gaining traction? Cohorting.

Colleen O'Rourke-Cipro, naviHealth's Senior Vice President of Clinical and Network Solutions, provides guidance on this approach in a recent Senior Housing News article.

Read the full story here.