

“The shift from volume to value-based care is gaining traction through the healthcare industry, challenging health plans to ask themselves if a technology system will allow them to thrive within their ecosystem,” naviHealth Founder and Chief Medical Advisor, Kenneth Botsford, says. “Solutions that support patient-centric care, measure outcomes, and offer robust analytics can grow in a value-based environment.”

Read the full Managed Healthcare Executive piece, here.