

Ensuring a seamless continuum of care for medically fragile seniors can be complicated. Enter naviHealth, a national leader in care transitions. Founded in 2011, the Nashville-based healthcare company works with health plans and risk-bearing health systems to provide an improved experience for seniors as they move from acute care to post acute and back to independent living.

Read the full story in Nashville Medical News.