

As data and analytics are increasingly leveraged in various aspects of the healthcare system, one company is making use of such capabilities to help clinicians make the best decisions for patients.

Based in Brentwood, Tenn., naviHealth provides both payers and providers with post-acute care management expertise. Its nH Predict tool allows clinicians to better predict a patient's outcomes in order to craft a personalized post-acute care plan.

Read the full article here.