

Health care is changing more and more rapidly. To thrive in this unpredictable environment, leaders need to excel in many areas. Karen Appold, editor of Managed Healthcare Executive takes a look at the top six attributes that leaders have identified as crucial to one's success.

naviHealth Chief Medical Officer, Ken Botsford, MD, highlights a variety of skills healthcare executives must have to succeed in the industry, such as "social awareness" and "policy savvy."

Read the fully story here.