

Case managers have access to more tech tools than ever: Predictive analytics, referral software for smoother transitions, apps to help monitor patients from afar. However, some case managers are unaware of what is available and which ones are best for our workflows — and best for our patients.

There's great demand for connectivity and tools to analyze health, but giving patients the health tech they desire goes beyond apps and virtual appointments.

Read the full article in CMSA Today.